Monday 8 November 2021, 2.00pm – 4.00pm

Tuesday 23 November 2021, 2.00pm – 4.00pm

You are invited to participate in a focus group discussion for community group leaders and or community organisations and share your views on volunteering opportunities at The British Museum.

The Volunteering team are keen to start conversations and gather feedback on the current volunteering offer and how to better reach out and involve our local communities in volunteering. You will be led through a series of questions and your feedback will help to shape future volunteering offers. We are particularly interested in reaching organisations that support and work with under served communities.

Please note attendance is only required at one sessions as the format and content will be the same at each. Each focus group will be able to accommodate 10 people.

To take part in one of these two events please RSVP to:

Light refreshments will be available.

More about Volunteering at The British Museum

More than 500 volunteers support the Museum throughout the year, in a variety of roles.

Volunteers share their knowledge and enthusiasm by delivering daily eye-opener tours, they help the public enjoy the collection in numerous other ways and support behind-the-scenes activities in almost every department. And that's just the start. Every volunteer offers invaluable support to the Museum, and they get something back from it too.

“Volunteering helps make the Museum feel accessible and welcoming... it's an enjoyable and stimulating experience. Volunteering is also a lot of fun!”
